1. Dedar Impression Nocturne

Italian family-run fabric house Dedar has unveiled Impression Nocturne, the newest colourway addition to the popular Dalie Papaveri Tulipani textile pattern. The abstract floral motif is the product of special woven effects such as yarn floats and fil coupé, which mimic the effect of a reverse jacquard fabric. Exposing the search for a new perspective, the accent on the reverse of the fabric makes it suitable for curtains. The multi-dimensional navy, gold and copper material embodies Dedar's continued effort to experiment and innovate by working with craftsmen and textile specialists familiar with the techniques used to produce quality fabrics.

2. Morbern Europe MorCare

The pandemic is driving designers to assess what materials are being specified for newbuild and refurbishment projects; and coated fabrics can be treated with biocidal active substances to inhibit the growth of microbes such as bacteria and viruses. The smooth, non-porous and durable surface of coated fabrics is resistant to scratches and cracks, where bacteria may thrive. All Morbern Europe coated fabrics are resistant to bleach and can be disinfected using alcohol-based products such as hydrogen peroxide and isopropyl alcohol without the risk of fading over time. MorCare comes in 22 plain colourways and 10 coordinated contemporary prints.

3. Sunbrella Bahia & Odyssey

Sunbrella is launching over a hundred new textile references this year, divided into two major collections: Odyssey and Bahia. With a palette of vibrant colours or pastel shades, refined geometric or solid patterns, bohemian influences or a classic spirit, the fabrics are suitable for a range of interiors. The novelties are imagined around six different moods, each thought of as a moment of life inscribed in a place, an atmosphere or a special occasion. Bringing together 148 references, including 53 new designs, these harmonise with Sunbrella's wider collection, offering considerable possibilities of arrangement for a sense of exoticism and escape.

4. Or.nami Wallpapers

Or.nami prides itself on studying the purity of colours in order to adorn living spaces with beauty, light and poetry. Founded in 2018, the brand's wallpapers are contemporary decorative works, guided by the creativity of colour and customisable patterns. The products are 100% Italian – from conception to production – and are a result of a constant collaboration with young artists and stylists, who translate their creative thoughts into poetic images, original graphics and emotional decorations on 410 and 330 gram vinyl media, or on pure silk. These high-quality materials guarantee excellent results both in terms of colour fidelity and easy installation.
